CONSULTING & COACHING

Hello, I am Martina Reiss!

Ambitious people and organizations in transition are my passion.

I support the realization of great visions, the building and development of organizations that carry great business ideas and turn them into reality. I help people realize their passions and turn their life plans into reality. I empower people to follow their passions and realize their unique purpose in life.

My services

Leadership Development

I offer the right service for all managers who want to learn important leadership tools, develop their own leadership identity or need support and sparring on their leadership journey. From workshops on current topics to holistic support, coaching and training programs - together we will find the right approach.

Business Coaching

As a coach, I see myself as a facilitator of my clients' goals and visions. We work together to develop the right strategies, to remove obstructive blocks or to work on identity issues - dynamically, respectfully and at eye level. For big visions we clarify the necessary resources and make sure that health and self-care aspects are adequately included.

HR Consulting

A successful business needs a strong organization. I help companies build and develop organizations and teams that can successfully manage ambitious business models and challenging transformation processes.
